“ Even when our parents have lived long and full lives, their passing leaves a hole in our hearts. I didn't know Dwight well, but during the several years I was Main Street Program Director, I got to know the business owners quite well. Dwight was always in a good mood when I stopped in and often helped me locate information or persons I needed to contact because he knew the community so well. I remember Jeanie when she was in one of my early quilting classes. It was fun to get to know people not directly involved in education.
